WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14. MIDNIGHT.

"Tis night's midglory-Earth, so calm, so still, On couch of space is wrapped in slumber's spell How soft and pure her bosom's rounded swell Neath fleecy robes, and placid radiance shed From silver orb, like watcher's lamp, o'erhead: While starry regions dimly throng and fill Her airy chamber, whence all sound is fied Bave breath of rising prayer, or whir of wings As angels viewless pass, or heavenward springs The guardien who hath wrought the Father's Ednight and moonlight, silence, stars and God-Sublimest height Diurnal Time hath trod. -Edward McCarthy in Woman. Bill Arp About Farming.

Farming is the nicest business in the world as long as it is done right, but the trouble seems to be in the men who do it. For instance, when a man fails and she was not altogether spared in at everything else he goes to farming the general, indiscriminate damning of for a living. He is still a failure. I the production - New York Sun. don't care how rich the land is it can't sprout brains in the man's head who cultivates it. Not much. When God fails to give a man good sense it is useless for him to try to grow wise by cars, and a young man sat down by his farming. If you can't make a fortune side. He said: farming, you can easily gather in a good time and a fat living if you will only act wisely. All you have to do is to plant on time and work it correctly, tion ?" and your crop will be making you a living of nights and at odd times, while you are asleep or are talking politics. But be careful how you dabble in political squabbles. Crops don't do well "Oh, yes," said the young man. "I then their owners talk Democracy too did not suppose you desired to look at much. had supplied quite unromatic stuff to extend the scant matter of the original. His idea had seemingly been to contrast the weirdness of Barbara's monomania with plenty of comicality, and to that end he had tediously enlarged the Virginia whites and negroes of the novelist's brief sketching. None of these hard laborers for laughter caused a smile, except of derision, and their protracted industry drove hundreds out of the house before the end was reached. Thirdly, the company was so incompetent that the best play ever written would have came to naught but failure under such treatment as this one received. A genuine negro boy came nearest of them all to success. He was droll and natural. The others were exasperations. It was a pitiful ordeal through which poor Miss Clayton passed, for there is hardly anything more heartless than a theatrical audience,
